MISSION AND AIMS

The German Cancer Information Service offers up-to-date, quality-assured, comprehensible information on all cancer-related topics for patients, their families, the general public, and for health care professionals in Germany. The information provided is based on best available evidence. Our goals are to contribute to patient empowerment, support communication between physicians and their patients to foster shared decision-making and to contribute to the improvement of individual cancer care.

SERVICE FOR PATIENTS, RELATIVES AND PEOPLE SEEKING INFORMATION

A team of physicians answers all cancer-related questions via phone (0800-420 30 40, daily from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., toll-free) or e-mail (krebsinformationsdienst@dkfz.de).

The German Cancer Information Service also offers face-to-face counseling at the German Cancer Research Center and the NCT/UCC in Dresden.

On www.krebsinformationsdienst.de, the service provides information in German on a wide range of cancer topics, such as prevention, early detection, diagnostics, treatment, and living with cancer. Users can also download brochures and fact sheets, or order them as prints.

QUALITY – KEY PRIORITY

The German Cancer Information Service is publicly funded and provides independent and neutral information. A high quality of the offered cancer information is also ensured by the scientific excellence of the German Cancer Research Center.

QUALITY CHARACTERISTICS

The primary source for the information offered by the service is its in-house knowledge database which is continuously being updated and enhanced. The content is based on continuous research and processing of scientific publications and other reliable sources. In addition, the service offers addresses for psycho-social support, such as counselling services for cancer patients and psycho-oncologists working in the outpatient setting. All information offerings are based on a comprehensive quality management process. For information provision via telephone, e-mail or social media, the service uses the knowledge database and information guidelines.

Quality management of information delivery includes staff qualification and continuous education, communication trainings, call evaluation, and individual and group coaching. Written information is counterchecked by several persons. The aim of this complex editing process is to ensure that the information is correct, well balanced and easy to read.

PROVIDER AND FUNDING

The German Cancer Information Service is operated by a committed, qualified team of 69 employees, working in telephone service, e-mail service, knowledge management, internet editing, communication & outreach, documentation / IT, and administration. Telephone and e-mail inquiries are answered by physicians who have received special training in health communication. Science journalists and scientific staff from various disciplines, such as medicine, biosciences, pharmacy and psychology as well as social lawyers are responsible for information research and editing.

The German Cancer Information Service is a service of the German Cancer Research Center (DKFZ). The DKFZ is funded by the Federal Ministry of Education and Research and the state of Baden-Württemberg. Additional project funding is provided by the Federal Ministry of Health and other partners.
